A. INTRODUCTION

The Canadian Media Producers Association (CMPA)

The CMPA is the national advocacy organization for independent producers, representing over 400 companies engaged in the development, production, and distribution of content made for television, cinema and digital media channels.

We work on behalf of our members to promote the continued success of the Canadian production sector, including the diverse content made by our members for both domestic and international audiences. Specifically, we organize and participate in international initiatives, represent industry interests to government, negotiate labour agreements, oversee copyright-related activities, offer mentorship programs, deliver professional development sessions, hold an annual conference and produce industry publications.

The CMPA in the international arena

The CMPA has been active internationally for over 25 years. Often working in partnership with Canadian industry stakeholders and government, we:

- Provide our members with market intelligence
- Assist with access to foreign events, markets, workshops;
- Deliver export skills development sessions;
- Lead missions to foreign markets;
- Coordinate CMPA presence at international events (e.g. festivals, markets, conferences) to support Canadian producers and the Canada brand.

We also regularly liaise with our counterparts in key foreign media markets to help carry out our international work. One of most recent collaborative efforts involved signing a memorandum of understanding in October 2018 with our counterparts in Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Croatia, France, India, Italy, New Zealand, Portugal, Singapore, South Korea, the US and the UK to form the Global Creative Alliance (GCA). The aim of the GCA is to forge broad cooperative relationships to encourage international business relations and share market intelligence. GCA members will also act as co-administrators of the Production Platform, an online networking tool available to TV companies to pitch ideas to each other for international collaboration and communicate via the tool to develop those ideas.

Our international objectives

Ultimately, the purpose of the CMPA's international strategy and resulting efforts in the international arena is to:

- Increase interest from foreign producers, buyers and financiers
- Increase direct knowledge of foreign markets
- Strengthen individual relationships with co-production partners
- Increase export opportunities – which is especially important for small and medium-sized companies

This purpose has prompted us to be involved in the world's largest entertainment market and trade events in the entertainment industry, including the Cannes Film Festival, American Film Market, NATPE, Hong Kong International Film and TV Market, Content London, MediaCon Dublin, Durban International Film Festival, FICCI Frames, MIPCOM, Berlinale and MIPTV. We have also lead industry-wide missions to a range of foreign markets, including Australia, New Zealand, the US, Brazil, England, Ireland, South Africa, South Korea, Singapore and Norway.

B. OVERVIEW: THE CANADIAN SCREEN-CONTENT SECTOR

Description of the industry and its importance for Canada

In 2016/17, the Canadian media production industry reached $8.38 billion in total volume of film and television production¹. During this same period:

- Export value in terms of the amount of foreign revenue collected by the production industry for sales reached $4.67 billion.²
- Canada's production industry generated 171,700 full time jobs and $12 billion in GDP for the Canadian economy.³

By becoming the first non-European country to join the Council of Europe's Eurimages fund in 2017 and concluding the Strategic Partnership Agreement with the EU, Canada is building more global opportunities for its screen-based content creators, and optimizing the potential for attracting project financing and achieving commercial success.⁴

Screen-content entrepreneurs on the international scene: sales and co-productions

Canadian production companies have forged an international reputation for delivering a level of unparalleled production expertise and service. Canada is also known for its particular strengths in computer animation and visual effects. As requirements for those technical services have grown in almost all production genres, Canadian companies are well-placed to deliver on these needs. Despite the strength of the Canadian dollar over the past several years, the Canadian industry has held its position in serving the lucrative foreign location and services market. More than $3.7 billion in foreign location and service production in Canada – the highest level our country has seen.⁵

Co-productions continue to be critical to ensure the vitality of the screen-content sector in Canada. These productions are important vehicles to strengthen international ties in the audiovisual sector and a way to promote and market Canadian talent abroad. They also enhance each partnering country’s production capacity by drawing foreign investment and by facilitating project financing for works that might not otherwise be produced, thereby boosting production budgets, generating employment and developing local talent.

In the last 10 years, Canada's screen content producers partnered in more than 700 international co-productions with budgets totaling almost $6 billion. The UK and France continue to be Canada's main co-production partners, with Australia, Ireland and Germany rounding out the list of main partners in 2016. With the top two partners comprising 65% of total budgets, there is room to increase activity outside of these two countries – especially with those that share a common language and trading link – while further solidifying and diversifying business opportunities.⁶

Further, recognizing the importance of global markets and the value of Canada’s coproduction treaties, the Canada Media Fund (CMF) has pursued bilateral co-development and coproduction agreements, setting aside modest funding envelopes for projects involving Canadian and Irish, Colombian, German, South African, Brazilian, Italian or New Zealand producers, with further such bilateral arrangements being contemplated in the future.

C. TARGET MARKETS

In the target markets identified below, the efforts of the CMPA between 2018 and 2021 are aimed at a range of international professional companies involved in all aspects of the screen-content production industry.

1. Established screen-content markets: France, Ireland, UK, US, Italy, Germany

France

France is internationally recognized as a trailblazer in the film and television industry, with box office revenues expected to rise from US $1.5 billion in 2016 to US $1.6 billion in 2021.⁷ France is the most important territory for broadcaster pre-sales worldwide, yielding US $18.2 million.⁸

The country commands an established support structure through favourable tax and financial incentives and is a major catalyst for access to European, Latin American, and Asian markets.

State and regulatory bodies such as the Centre national du cinéma et de l'image animée (CNC) and Sociétés de financement de l'industrie cinématographique et de l'audiovisuel (SOFICA) play indispensable roles in France's distinguished industry. The State upholds that a robust film and television industry is a cultural priority and provides strategic support to finance, distribute, promote, and export content. For nearly 70 years, Unifrance (administered by the CNC) has been a world-leader in providing support in selling French films in major international markets. As a result of France's international efforts, French films are experiencing unparalleled success in selling to Russia and Mexico.⁹ Significantly, France is a top European exporter of animation.¹⁰

Canada and France have a long-standing, fruitful partnership celebrating 72 feature film and 113 television audiovisual treaty co-production projects since 2006.¹¹ The total combined budgets of these co-productions amounted to almost CAD $600 million, securing 48% of the share of co-production activity between Canada and partner countries.¹² France is the most important country to Canada for exporting feature films of all genres, and most especially animation productions.

Key events in the France of import to the Canadian screen-content industry include the Annecy International Animation Film Festival, MIPCOM and the Cannes Film Festival:

- France is a top European exporter of animation and continues to be catalyst for animation productions particularly through the Annecy International Animation Film Festival, which holds a competition between cartoon films and various techniques such as animated drawings, cut-out papers, and modeling clay.
- MIPCOM, held in Cannes annually since 1985, is a robust trade show that is well represented by television studios and broadcasters. The event is comparable to a marketplace and is an indispensable opportunity to connect Canadian producers with international media buyer and sellers.
- The Cannes Film Festival has been described as the most important film festival with respect to worldwide impact and garnered media attention. Cannes was founded with the purpose of raising the profile of films to develop cinema, boost the film industry, and celebrate ingenuity on a global scale. Cannes revels in celebrating the best filmmakers and emerging talent from all over the world, making attendance at the Festival key for creative entrepreneurs' global market strategies.

INTENDED ACTIONS – FRANCE

Outbound mission: To the Annecy International Animation Film Festival in June 2020.

Attendance: At the Cannes Film Festival and MIPCOM in 2018 –2020.

Ireland

Ireland's film and television industry offers a highly developed infrastructure, backed by stable Irish government support. The audiovisual content production sector in Ireland is estimated to be worth in excess of CAD $725.9 million.

The Irish Film Board (IFB) is the market's main funding body and is also charged with attracting productions to shoot in Ireland. Incoming shoots have included the Canada-Ireland co-production The F Word, and the Canada-Ireland TV show Vikings for History Channel US.

IFB figures for the industry show that production activity for the independent film, television drama and animation sector has reached the highest level on record, contributing over CAD $235 million into the Irish economy through employment creation and spend on local goods and services.

Ireland has co-produced with almost every European territory, as well as Canada, Australia and South Africa, and has a wealth of experienced co-producers across all media platforms. Section 481, the Irish tax incentive for TV and film, was recently extended to 2020. This incentive was increased on January 1, 2015 from 28% to 32% of a film's Irish spend, precipitating a system change from investor-led funding to a tax credit and garnering expanded interest from Canadian producers to co-produce with Irish partners.

Key events in Ireland for the Canadian screen-content industry include the Mediacon Global Entertainment Summit.

- The Mediacon Global Entertainment Summit offers an excellent opportunity to engage in high-level discussion with the global content industry. The summit facilitates strategic networking events and promotes global market development that is, among other things, conducive to Irish screen-content industry stakeholders undertaking outbound missions to continue on the ground discussions with key production partners such as Canada.

INTENDED ACTIONS – IRELAND

Outbound mission: To MediaCon Dublin in November 2018.

Inbound mission: Host Irish screen-content delegation in January 2020 at the CMPA's annual conference Prime Time.

UK

The UK television industry is a major international success story and a natural co-production partner for Canada. This market produces thousands of hours of content each year, contributing approximately CAD $2.4 billion to the UK's GDP.¹³ In terms of gross box office sales, the UK is the second most important exporter of feature films in the world, steadily increasing in the last 10 years to US $9.4 billion.¹⁴ Series such as Downton Abbey, Spooks, Sherlock, Life on Mars and Doctor Who have secured unprecedented success in the international arena, as have innovative formats including The X Factor, Masterchef, Who Wants to be a Millionaire, Strictly Come Dancing, Dancing on Ice and Top Gear.

¹³ We are UK Film (2017). (<http://www.weareukfilm.com/facts-and-stats>)

The UK has consistently been Canada's top or second co-producing partner of choice in the past few decades. Since 2007, the Canada-UK coproduction treaty has been the most used treaty with 174 productions.¹⁵ The UK is the second most-important market for the pre-sale of Canadian programs, generating almost CAD $91,000,000 in revenues in 2015.¹⁶ On average, films coproduced with the UK achieve a much higher volume of sales.

The UK government has become increasingly supportive of the industry, with improved lottery-sourced funding and tax concessions. Relaxation of the domestic and by extension international project certification process offers wider opportunities for international co-productions as they are now eligible for direct funding; approximately 25% of funded projects are international co-productions. An added incentive for continued market presence was the drop of the UK's corporate tax rate in April 2014.

Key events in the UK for the Canadian screen-content industry include Content London:

- Content London is a world-class event that features over 200 speakers in a variety of audio-visual roles including commissioners, producers, financiers, technologists, agents, and writers. The event delivers highly desired access to major global media players who, given the opportunity to connect with Canadian screen-content producers either at the event or in Canada, may develop business synergies.

INTENDED ACTIONS – UK

Outbound mission: To Content London in December 2018.

Inbound mission: Host UK screen-content delegations in January 2020 at the CMPA's annual conference Prime Time.

Initiatives: Work with the High Commission of Canada in the UK to host a "Canada Day" at Canada House in December 2018, 2019 and 2020.

US

The US, and specifically Hollywood, is considered the global entertainment and media capital. It is a movie mecca that generates over CAD $703 billion in revenue that is expected to grow to over CAD $804 billion over the next four years.¹⁷ The US industry is highly concentrated: the 50 largest companies account for about 70 percent of revenue; however, small companies can compete successfully by, among other ways, creating low budget movies for niche audiences.

In 2016, US production volume remained steady with a total of 789 films.¹⁸ The US also dominates in global film exports, generating 70% of its film revenue from foreign markets¹⁹ with animation being its greatest export.²⁰ For Canadian companies, the US is the top export partner for film sales, generating CAD $57,990,646 in 2015.²¹

Independent production companies are no longer limited to making and distributing documentaries and art-house projects. Once considered renegades, many companies of this type are now well-established and well-respected industry players. The affordability and accessibility of production technology has further democratized the marketplace for the independent production house.

Independent cinema in the US relies heavily on press reviews and media attention, particularly around the key talent of actors and directors. At present, there isn't a perception of Canadian cinema or a new generation of directors taking root in the public's consciousness to create energy and excitement around new Canadian films. As a result, Canadian films are often considered niche.²²

Given the challenge as detailed above regarding the lack of perceived identity of Canadian cinema within the US, it is important for the CMPA to work with Canadian industry partners, including the Trade Commissioner Service, to maximize every opportunity for producers to galvanize and champion all Canadian content and Canadian-based creators in US programs, irrespective of financial investment in individual projects. Canadian companies are interested in more targeted initiatives bringing together US buyers with Canadian sellers, and in support for co-ventures with the US to grow their businesses and their international reach.²³

Key events in the US of import to the Canadian screen-content industry include South by Southwest (SXSW), the American Film Market (AFM) and Kidscreen:

- SXSW presents an unmatched opportunity to learn and network with media professionals across cultural industries. With a focus on discoverability in interactive, film, and music industries, this conference leads the way in exploring up-coming media trends that will shape the future of the audio-visual industry.
- The AFM is held each year in Santa Monica, California and attracts more than 7,000 film industry professional from more than 70 different countries. This marketplace is an indispensable opportunity to network, sell, finance, and acquire films. The main focus of the AFM is to facilitate production and distribution deals.
- Kidscreen is the best attended and most relevant event for executives in kids' entertainment. This event allows creative minds to engage in critical dialogue concerning key industry issues with programmers, buyers, producers, distribution, licensors, retailers, marketers, digital media managers and even toy companies present.

INTENDED ACTIONS – US

Initiative: Work with Canadian and US industry partners to host the L.A. Pre-Sale Pitch Sessions in August 2018.

Inbound missions: Host US screen-content delegations in January 2020 and 2021 at the CMPA's annual conference Prime Time.

Attendance: South by Southwest 2018 & 2020, American Film Market 2018 –2020, Kidscreen 2019.

Italy

Since the 1950s, Italy has played a leading role in cultivating international audio-visual collaborations. Italy's well-established film infrastructure, experienced local crews and production service companies, and unparalleled backdrops yield a highly-regarded film and TV shooting location that naturally impresses visionaries like Ridley Scott and Danny Boyle.²⁴

²⁴ World of Locations, Malta Film Commission, November 2017–April 2018, Print.

Additionally, Italy offers a 25% tax credit up to USD $10.6 million and is well-known for its exceptional studios.

Italy is one of Western Europe's largest economies and is the third largest economy in the Eurozone.²⁵ Accordingly, Italy and Canada have a well-established yet diversifying trade and investment relationship.²⁶ Export Development Canada's (EDC) position is that Italy is open, actively pursuing business, and its Commercial Country Ceiling (CCC) Risk Rating is low²⁷. Priority sectors in Italy include ICT, infrastructure (power generation) and renewable energy; however, by 2022 the film and TV sectors are forecasted to grow:²⁸ according to PwC, Italian film-making is said to be in the midst of a mini-renaissance.

By 2022, Italy's box office revenue is set to rise at a CAGR of 2.7% to USD $774 million, up from USD $676 million in 2017.²⁹ TV subscription revenue is also set to grow at a 1.5% CAGR, reaching USD $3.6 billion in 2022.³⁰ In terms of Internet access, Italy has the third-highest mobile Internet subscription rate in Western Europe and the upsurge in smartphone penetration will only bolster revenue growth.³¹ Italy's commitment to collaboration and international expansion is trailblazing and helps to exemplify why this country is a dynamic market for audio-visual productions.

Key events in Italy for the Canadian screen-content industry include When East Meets West (WEMW):

- In 2018, WEMW brought together over 450 participants from 40 countries across Europe, North America and Latin America more than 40 different countries, establishing the event as a strategic territory at which key international players and decision makers come together to encourage collaborative efforts with and between their respective markets.³² Each year, in cooperation with domestic funding bodies, WEMW features a new East & West regional focus: the 2021 edition of the event will feature English-speaking markets, including Canada, as countries of honour.

Outbound mission: To When East Meets West 2021.

Germany

Germany's audio-visual industry has a rich history as a champion for intercultural exchange and the cinematic exploration of social issues.³³ Overall, the cinematic market in Germany is stable. By 2022, the total cinema revenue is predicated to reach USD $1.4 billion, up at a 1.2% CAGR from 2017.³⁴ After falling in 2016, box office revenue in 2017 increased by 3.2% to USD $1.2 billion.³⁵ Germany's strong regional film funds and cash-rebate incentives along with experienced, multilingual crews and impressive landscapes repeatedly draw international productions.³⁶ Recently, Sony blockbuster's Spiderman: Homecoming and Imagine Entertainment's The Spy Who Dumped Me shot scenes in Germany.³⁷ At the German box office, family films are the most dominant genre.³⁸

The TV market in Germany is mature and is expected to surpass the UK as Western Europe's leading TV subscription industry.³⁹ In 2017, TV revenue reached USD $5.8 billion and is forecasted to reach USD $6.5 billion by 2022. Germany's license-fee income is the second-highest in world, accounting for 45.4% of total traditional TV market income.⁴⁰

Germany has one of the most developed OTT video markets in the world. There are over 60 OTT services operating in German making this country the second largest OTT video market in Europe.⁴¹ In terms of revenue, Germany has the sixth largest OTT video market worldwide, and is expected to grow as broadband infrastructure further improves.⁴²

Germany's market size, economic and political stability, and accommodating business environment spawn an attractive place for Canadian businesses: it is considered to be open, primed for business activity, and low risk.⁴³ EDC expects strong opportunities for Canadian businesses in the ICT, machinery, renewable energy, and environment technologies sectors.⁴⁴ Out of 138 countries in the World Economic Forum's Global Competitiveness Report, Germany is ranked fifth.⁴⁵

Key events in Germany for the Canadian screen-content industry include the Berlin International Film Festival (Berlinale):

- Held in one of the most vibrant cities in the world and with 500,000 admissions and 20,000 professions attending each year, Berlinale has the largest public attendance of any annual film festival.⁴⁶ Its European Film Market (EFM) has been described as “an international marketplace, a compass for the new film year and a platform for innovation and change.”⁴⁷ Over 4200 journalists produce media coverage in over 110 countries during the Berlinale and EFM.⁴⁸ Germany, and in particular the Berlinale and EFM, are critical to the prosperity and innovation of the international film market.

INTENDED ACTIONS – GERMANY

Attendance: Berlin International Film Festival in February 2019.

Outbound mission: For a delegation of emerging screen-content producers to the Berlin International Film Festival in February 2020.

2. Emerging co-production markets: China, India, Colombia, Nigeria

China

Global Affairs Canada reports that China is the fastest growing film market and is now the second-largest film market in the world. China is expected to surpass North America as the largest movie market in the world by the end of 2017.⁴⁹ In 2016, China surpassed the US as the #1 market by number of screens:⁵⁰

March 2017 marked important policy development, when China enacted film legislation calling for transparency in the censorship process.⁵¹ Films have become central to Chinese courtship and consumption: its domestic box office grows by 20-30% annually. Although the Chinese government actively encourages private investment in the independent sector, only 34 big-budget films and a handful of independent foreign ones are allowed into China each year.

China offers an enormous consumer market based on its large population and robust purchasing power. The country is also willing to pay for premium branded commodities and services, and is increasingly cognizant of the need to protect foreign intellectual property rights in the face of prevalent piracy issues.

Hong Kong has a state of the art infrastructure that provides wide-range support to the screen content industry, including film, television, comics and animation, games and other forms of digital entertainment. Its insularity from the rest of the world is fundamentally changing as more and more companies attend key events such as Hong Kong FILMART, looking for potential production partners. Significantly, in 2016, Canada and China began exploratory talks on a free trade agreement ⁵² and, as noted in CMF's 2017 Your Market Is Everywhere report, "several Canadian companies have had success both exporting to and collaborating with Chinese producers".⁵³ Canadian science fiction, animation, romantic comedies and fantasy tales tend to generate high levels of export revenues in China.

As relationships with China develop slowly, CMPA plans on sustaining outreach as well as research support for Canadian producers interested in this market for at least 3 years, to ensure that long term benefits are supported.

⁵³ CMF Trends (2017). Your Market is Everywhere – China.

Key events in China the Canadian screen-content industry include the Hong Kong International Film and TV Market (FILMART):

- FILMART is Asia's leading project market, connecting more than 1,000 trade buyers from over 40 countries annually to cultivate creative partnerships and discuss audio-visual market trends. During this co-production market, filmmakers have the benefit of networking and strategizing with film financiers, producers, bankers, distributors, buyers and other film professionals.

INTENDED ACTIONS – CHINA

Participation: Select CMPA members to participate in the Canadian Government's creative industries-focused mission to Shanghai and Beijing in April 2018.

Outbound mission: To Hong Kong International Film and TV Market in March 2021.

India

In 2014, Canada and India ratified an international audiovisual co-production treaty. As the largest producer of films in the world in terms of the number of projects, India is now coming onto the global film production scene. Over the last 3 years, India continues to steadily release a large number of domestic features, with 1903 films certified in 2016.⁵⁴ More recently, the Government of India has implemented several initiatives to attempt to liberalize regulations relating to foreign film policy, including fiscal benefits, film festivals and awards, and facilitating the shooting of films.⁵⁵

According to PricewaterhouseCoopers' Indian Entertainment and Media Industry report, India's E&M sector showed strong growth in 2016, with revenues rising from CAD $15 billion in 2015 to CAD $17.7 billion – a year-on-year increase of 20%. This growth was achieved in spite of a relative slowdown in the broader economy. In 2015, the Indian market generated US $1.5 billion in domestic box office sales.⁵⁶ KPMG projects that the Indian film industry will reach INR 219.8 billion in 2018.

Home entertainment is booming (where the much lower cost of accessing audiences on DVD and VOD is a significant factor), especially with respect to animation and documentary content consumption. Regardless of Indian preferences to watch films in local languages, India presents a number of opportunities for Canadian film, television and digital content producers that merit further exploration, including access to a solid talent pool at reduced costs, and access to private sector financing. Having a presence in the Indian market on a longer term and ongoing basis is vital for Canada to exploit these opportunities.

Main industry trends include emerging sources of revenue, increased collaboration with international studios, the rise of 3D cinema, the advent of digital cinema and the growth of multiplexes. Recent Canadian-Indian deals have focused on the genres of children's programming, animation, and both scripted and unscripted lifestyle programming.⁵⁷

Key events in India for the Canadian screen-content industry include the GOA Film Bazaar :

- Held in Goa, India since 2007, Film Bazaar is South Asia's largest film market. It has become a major meeting point for international film buyers and sellers looking to enhance creative and financial collaboration between global film communities.

INTENDED ACTIONS – INDIA

Outbound mission: To Goa Film Bazaar in November 2020.

Inbound mission: Host India screen-content delegations in January 2020 at the CMPA's annual conference Prime Time.

Colombia

The screen-based industry in Colombia continues to grow. With exponential growth forecasted for the years ahead⁵⁸, Colombia has been identified as an emerging market with broad Canadian interests. In May 2017, the Canada Media Fund, Proimágenes Colombia, and MinTIC signed an agreement to incite co-development initiatives for digitized animation, fiction, and documentary content.⁵⁹

Colombia offers low filming costs and customary technical infrastructures that result in the production of high-quality content.⁶⁰ The market is ranked fourth in Latin America for the number of films produced.⁶¹

In addition to financial incentives, organizations such as PROCOLOMBIA have gained momentum in helping to support international strategies that attract upscale foreign film and TV production to the country. By 2021, box office revenues are expected to rise 6.5% from US $146 million to US $200 million, with subscription TV revenues reaching US $1.2 billion.⁶² Although Hollywood films continue to dominate Colombia's box office charts, local production is said to be on the rise.⁶³ In 2016, Colombia received its first Oscar nomination for the film Embrace of the Serpent.

Key events in Colombia for the Canadian screen-content industry include the Cartagena International Film Festival (FICCI):

- FICCI is the oldest film festival in Latin America. It aims to fashion a dynamic atmosphere spurred by lively dialogue and practical networking between industry professionals and audiences.

INTENDED ACTIONS – COLOMBIA

Initiative: Host Columbia screen-content delegation in January 2020 at the CMPA's annual conference Prime Time.

Attend: Cartagena International Film Festival in March 2021.

Nigeria

Nigeria is Africa's most populous country, and one of the continent's largest economies. Its primary source of income is oil but due to the financial crisis of 2008–09, followed by the drop in the price of oil, its economic growth has been diversified⁶⁴ to include the entertainment industry.

Canada does not have a co-production treaty with Nigeria; however, exploring collaboration opportunities with this rapidly growing and maturing market would be advantageous from a financial and creative perspective. The country's film industry is second largest in the world, only surpassed by India's Bollywood, generating US $7 billion, employing 1 million people and producing over 2,500 movies per year. Box office revenue is forecast to keep on rising, increasing at a CAGR of 8.0% over the forecast period from US $79 million in 2016 to US $116 million in 2021.⁶⁵ According to journalist Emily Witt, author of Nollywood: The Making of a Film Empire, Nigeria is positioned to become a "global brand much like the films of Bollywood or Kung Fu movies."⁶⁶

While most movies are generally low budget and are backed by private investors, Nigeria's creative industries enjoy government support in the form of initiatives to reduce financial burdens on new investments, and encourage both foreign and local investments into the film industry. The government also lends support to the industry in fighting piracy.⁶⁷

With their increased presence at MIPCOM and AFM, Nigeria is working on strengthening its relationships with Europe and North America.⁶⁸

Key events in Nigeria for the Canadian screen-content industry include the Africa International Film Festival (AFRIFF):

- AFRIFF celebrates African Cinema and the positive socio-economic impact that a budding film industry can have for third world and developing economies. AFRIFF is Nigeria's prime event for encouraging international screen-content partnerships.

3. Markets on our radar: Czech Republic, Hungary, South Africa

The CMPA may host and/or attend exploratory meetings at major international events to gauge mutual interest in co-production and other business opportunities with each of the markets outlined below.

Czech Republic

The Czech Republic is predicted to remain an attractive location for film production in the 21st century, especially for films and high-end TV dramas.⁶⁹ Since 2015, the country has experienced strong box office growth with admissions expected to rise to US $17.2 million by 2021.⁷⁰ Local films are especially popular, with an impressive average market share of 20 - 24% over the past few years and reaching nearly 30% in 2016.⁷¹

The volume of foreign productions in Czech Republic steadily increased with the introduction of its incentives program in 2010. The incentive program largely provides support for feature films, TV, animation, and documentary films. Remarkably, there is no cap on the funding amount awarded per project.⁷²

With the highest average earnings in the former Eastern Europe, the Czech Republic is a well cabled and generally well-developed television market with a competitive series of VOD packages, most of them linked to existing TV channels.

Hungary

The Hungarian film industry has experienced dynamic development over the past few years.⁷³ Favourable legislative changes and the creation of a new film funding organization have ultimately led to the rejuvenation of Hungary's film industry. Hungary's total cinema revenue is expected to increase from US $75 million in 2016 to US $102 million in 2021.⁷⁴

In the spring of 2011, the Hungarian Government decreed that a new motion picture company be established and a national strategy be created in order to revitalize the Hungarian film industry and settle any outstanding debts. As a result, the Hungarian National Film Fund was created, with a budget of almost CAD $30 million to provide non-refundable funding support to domestic and international co-productions with Hungarian participation. The support is refundable from the distribution revenue. Distributors may apply for distribution support in Hungary for films that received production support from the Film Fund.

The enacted legislative changes also led to improvements in film infrastructure and provided the foundation for the rapid growth in Hungary's digital media sector.⁷⁵

South Africa

South Africa has a bustling film industry and has been forecasted as a market to watch by PWC in the firm's 2017-2021 Global Media and Entertainment Outlook report. In 2016, South Africa reached a century high record with the release of 28 domestic productions, six more than the previous year.⁷⁶ Growth in production volume has been largely attributed to the weak rand, scenic shooting locations and favourable weather conditions, a sophisticated workforce and a competitive rebate system.⁷⁷

South Africa's industry has grown over 85% in the last 5 years and is now one of the top locations for film, television and commercials. Their industry is expected to continue to grow, with revenue estimated to rise to US $239 million by 2021.

Two additional alluring features of South Africa's screen-based industry are their incentives to grow the film industry, and state-of-the-art infrastructures to support production activity. Canadian content fares well in South Africa and Canadian producers claim that the Canada-South Africa co-productions are among the "easiest to set up".⁷⁸

With consumer spending on media and entertainment forecasted to triple in the country by 2020, it is indispensable to continue to foster business relationships with, and opportunities in, this market.
